Annual Skills index 2021

This index, created in collaboration with labour market economists Emsi and the British Chambers of Commerce explores how the skills and employment landscape is transforming and examines what skills and opportunities are growing now, and in the future.

Our index finds that the pandemic has accelerated change in the UK's labour market, leading to a shift in the type of jobs available and the skills sought after by employers.

It also unveils some growing mismatches between the skills people have, and the ones needed by businesses today and in the future – suggesting that businesses' productivity and ability to succeed is at stake.

What does the report say about Leadership and Management

According to the Skills Index some the top 10 in common skills (or pan job / industry) are leadership, compassion, innovation, research, empathy and mentorship – all of which have seen a % increase.

Additionally, “Businesses also expect more common (or soft) skills, particularly those that aid business success and growth, such as ..., leadership and management, ...” The report lists Leadership and Management as a second top skills that business will need over the next three years.

Finally the report details the mismatch between supply vs demand and states that only 24% of respondents are confident they have leadership and management skills, yet employers are stating 40% want leadership and management skills, which clearly illustrates the L&M skills gap.

Digital Solutions Updates

Agenda

What have we learnt in the last 15 months?

The platform with qualification learning resources and an embedded e-portfolio

The challenges of going digital

The COVID-19 pandemic closed workplaces and college campuses forcing rapid improvisation, innovation, and adoption of online teaching.

From September 2020, most learning has been delivered online and possibly combined with some face-to-face but socially distanced learning experiences.

Real time online teaching requires more focus and is more tiring and time-consuming. Tutors and students must work together to achieve the right blend of 'intensive' and 'extensive' learning.

Key to success will be blending real-time 'intensive' online engagement with tutors and 'extensive' online learning experiences supporting self-guided learning.

Award in Leadership and Team Skills Level 2 - Example Content

Activity 17

Reflect on your own performance as a team leader, or potential team leader, and consider Blanchard's model. Consider each of the leadership styles in the Blanchard model. What skills and behaviours do you need to display for each style and how effective are you currently in using each of these skills? What might you need to concentrate on to improve your leadership in each quadrant?

Please download and save this worksheet before you complete it.

Once you have completed and saved it, please upload your finished worksheet below.

Leadership styles

A lot is said about the importance of leadership styles. As a team leader, we have been given responsibility for ensuring that the team gets results. It might be that your team produces something which is costly, time-consuming and which ensures you to judge the success of the team. For example, if you work in a factory and your team is required to make 1,000 loaves a night, you can quickly judge how successful or unsuccessful the team is by checking how many loaves are baked each night.

While as a team leader we are paid to get results, we might have to consider how we get the results expected of us. You will know how working with your colleagues that each member of your team is different in a variety of ways. You will recognise that some people are good at some things and not so good at others.

Solving problems

The nature, scope and impact of problems

1 The nature of the problem

You need to know what the problem is by asking questions, such as:

- Is this problem a life-threatening emergency?
- How exposed will I/mine be affected by the problem?
- Is the problem urgent?
- How emergency can/would/will be put into action?
- What is the background to the problem?
- When, where and how things go wrong?

Team development

Now you are aware of how your team fits into your organisation, now let's focus on how a team is formed and how it develops and grows.

Watch the 6:20 video on building a team.

Building a team
just like you

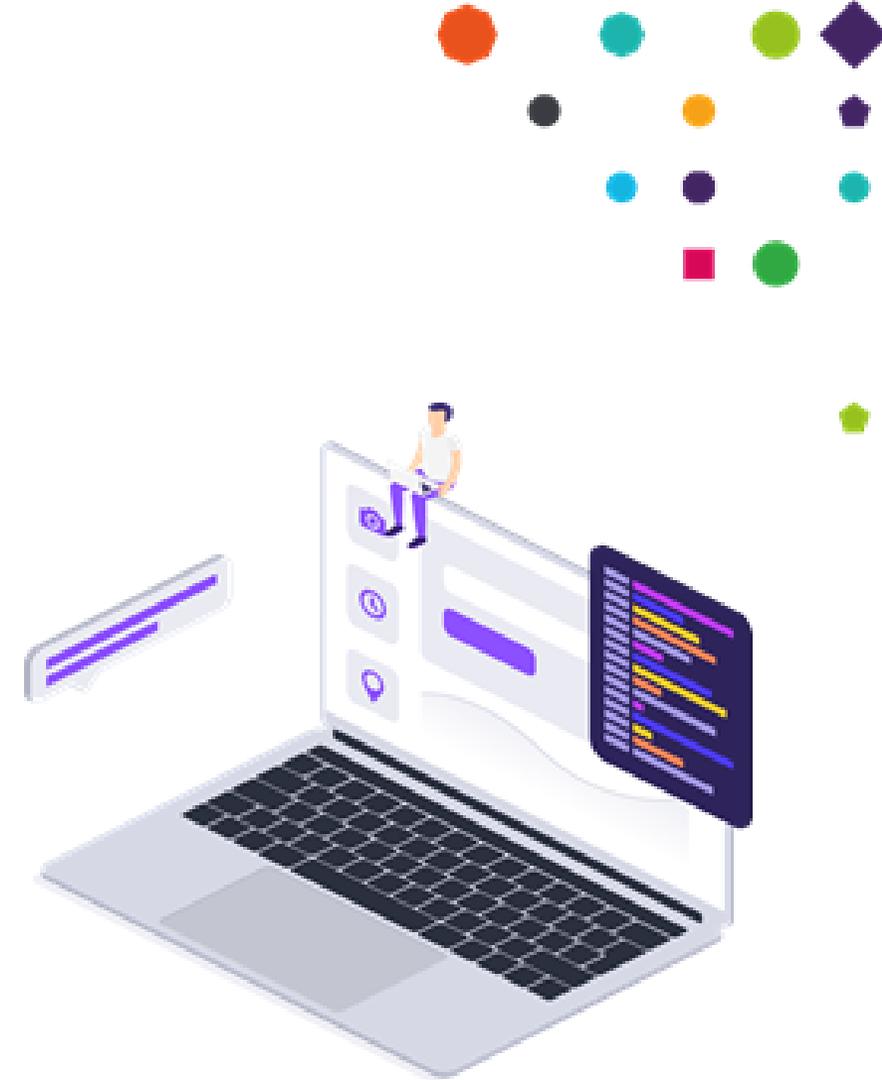

How does a team develop and grow? Practically, there is a natural process through which any team has to go before it can achieve outstanding levels of performance. While it is fair to say that people can be thrown together on a task and work effectively for a short time to achieve a goal or several goals, most teams take time to grow and to develop.
