ILM Level 5
Certificate and Diploma in Action Learning Facilitation

Who are these qualifications for?
The Level 5 Certificate and Diploma in Action Learning Facilitation are designed for middle and senior managers responsible for organising and facilitating action learning. These qualifications aim to provide learners with the knowledge and skills to set up and run an action learning programme for the first time and adopt best practice. Managers also have the opportunity to accredit their experience through attaining formal qualifications.

Benefits for individuals
- Get a thorough understanding of the role of action learning facilitator
- Make a business case for action learning in your organisation
- Develop and review the necessary self-awareness, communication and interpersonal skills
- Design and deliver an action learning programme, with supervision.

Benefits for employers
- Implement action learning in your organisation for effective succession planning and problem-solving at all levels of an organisation
- Benchmark your action learning programme against best practice
- Transfer of skills to the workplace through the implementation of an action learning programme.

At Certificate level, there are three mandatory units which cover improving performance through action learning, reviewing own ability to facilitate and support action learning, and facilitating action learning. At Diploma level, there is an additional unit which requires learners to design and deliver 100 hours of action learning facilitation, under their training provider’s supervision.

Progression
Successful completion of this qualification will provide progression opportunities to other qualifications such as the ILM Level 5 Extended Diploma in Leadership and Management.
